

TRACK PREMIERE: Emi Meyer "Galaxy's Skirt (Soul Catalyst Remix)"

Posted by Sophie Saint Thomas on Nov 11, 2015 in Reviews, EXCLUSIVE, Recent | 0 comments

Emi Meyer's debut album, Curious Creature came out in 2009 and reached #1 on Japan's iTunes Jazz Charts, and lead her to be crowned as iTunes Japan's Best New Artist. Now America has caught up to speed, and AudioFemme is here to premiere her new track, "Galaxy's Skirt (Soul Catalyst Remix)." It's jazz, but with the most delightful tropical pop twist which makes it the best song to dance to, alone out of happiness or out with a lover, that we've heard in some time. Emi comes from an interesting background full of accolades. Born in Kyoto to a Japanese mother and American father, she moved to Seattle as a child, and went on to win the 2007 Seattle-Kobe Jazz vocalist competition. Now, she's kicking ass with her music being featured on the likes of MTV's "Awkward."

Her upcoming album Galaxy's Skirt: Deluxe Edition is out December 4. You can catch her before then playing New York's Club Bonafide Friday, November 13.

Upgrade your work day with the dance-infused jazz track below.

Emi Meyer
Galaxy's Skirt (Soul Catalyst Remix)
SOUNDCLOUD
4:09

Cookie policy

You may also like:

- How to Make $367/Day Without A Job
Career News Online
- TRACK REVIEW: Heather Woods Broderick "A Call For Distance"
- VIDEO PREMIERE: Erica Glyn, "All Just For You"
- PLAYING DETROIT: Shady Groves
- Enjoy An Unforgettable Holiday In San Francisco
SF Gate
- Bend, Oregon: Winter Fun For The Whole Family
SF Gate
- BITTER'S KISS: Bitter's Kiss "Love Won't Make You Cry"
- TRACK OF THE WEEK: The Rungs "Whispers"

Comments

0 comments

0 Comments

Sort by Top

Add a comment...

Facebook Comments Plugin